BUSINESS REQUIREMENTS

Business requirements, also known as stakeholder requirements specifications (StRS), describe the characteristics of a proposed system from the viewpoint of the system's end user like a CONOPS. Products, systems, software, and processes are ways of how to deliver, satisfy, or meet business requirements. A business requirements example would be if a company's objective is to upgrade its manual payroll process by switching to an automated payroll process, the business requirements for the project might be described as, "implement a computerized system that reduces errors and increases efficiency by calculating employees.
